Baltimore Music School

Janna Friedman

The Baltimore Music School was founded by musician Janna Friedman in 1996. Seeing a lack of music education in her Pikesville community, Ms. Friedman focused on creating an environment of inspiration, education, and competition that could extend beyond the music world. And, she has succeeded. Many of her students continue to play instruments and have an appreciation for music as they begin new studies in a variety of fields. The Baltimore Music School is structured with regular classes, tests and recitals. For more information about the School, call 410-653-2862.
